

“IDLE THREAT” MAN ON EMISSION
Movie Screening and Discussion at Rye Country Day School

Co-sponsored by
Rye Country Day School Parents Association Environmental and Wellness Committee and City of Rye Sustainability Committee

When: Friday, January 29th at 7pm (film runs for 65 minutes)

Refreshments will be served starting at 6:30pm

Where: Rye Country Day School, Performing Arts Center

Honored Guest: George Pakenham, creator and star of IDLE THREAT

Details: In a button down and tie, banker George Pakenham walked the streets of New York for over 5 years, politely confronting over 3,000 motorists to explain idling’s impact and the law prohibiting the running of a parked vehicle for more than a few minutes. No matter the response, Pakenham never wavers. He’s determined to expose the environmental and health dangers that idling poses and lobbies successfully for the city to enforce its idling laws. Featuring Click and Clack from NPR’s Car Talk and former Mayor Michael Bloomberg, IDLE THREAT highlights one man’s mission to make his city a healthier place. Sometimes all it takes is turning a key.

Chairs: Gretchen Kaye-Crowley and Sara Goddard

The Rye Country Day School Parents Association Environmental and Wellness Committee was created in 2008 to provide information and raise awareness to our children and school community on vital topics of sustainability and health.

The Rye Sustainability Committee is a committee of the Rye City government dedicated to educating the community about critical environmental issues. Website: <http://ryeny.gov/sustainability.cfm>
